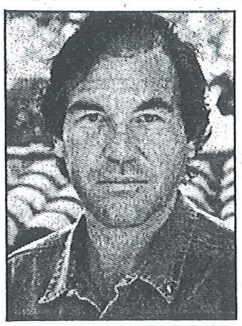
Moviemania "JFK" director Oliver Stone, who called an East Coast columnist to spend an hour talking about assassination theories and listing books he wanted the writer to read, appears to have something of a control thing about the upcoming film. For a press junket scheduled next month, studio insiders report that Stone has final approval on each of the papers invited and each of the writers who will be covering the event.



Stone